WEBB, ANNE (continued) liked Panama somuch we would like to live in S.A. so he got a job in Bogata. We spent about 18 months there before his transfer to Cuba where we lived for 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ years (before Batista and Castro). We came back to U.S.A. when our oldest boy was two and spent quite a while getting adjusted to a new way of life - no palm trees and only weekly help and the baby sitter problem. While in Colombia we travelled around Colombia quite a bit by plane and car and also to Ecuador. We got to know most of Cuba fairly well too, and were very sad to leave. We are now quite used to the N.Y. rat race and altho I loved speaking Spanish again on vacation this winter, we are very happy here."

ANDREAS..of the Blessed Sacrement. Mary writes, "These past 20 yrs, or at least the past 15 yrs, have witnessed so many happenings -- the sadness of leaving one's home and friends, the particular and ever-increasing joy found in our vocation, the delight in watching a child's eyes light up as he finally "gets" a point in a lesson -- but that may or may not be of interest to others. But there is a point which I recall from our high school days and for which I'm deeply grateful; that is, the absence of any such situation reported from high schools in Va., Fla., and, soon, Louisiana. The imperative and Christian remedy for the condition is, I hope, a matter of patient understanding and prayerful thought for us all. Then, perhaps, high school days for these children of both races will prove to be as happy as our "good old days".
